

THE JEWISH RELATION TO CANNABIS

- An online course that covers the role of cannabis in Jewish tradition, culture, practice
- Designed to enhance cultural sensitivity and awareness about the values that inform Jewish habits of consumption and participation in the cannabis industry
- Each section covers a different aspect of the Jewish relation to cannabis with a list of definitions, summary and analysis of an article published on Cannabis Jew Magazine that covers the topic
- 23 slides Available in PDF or PPX, easy to integrate into an accredited program
- Sold with an annual Yeshiva subscription to Cannabis Jew Magazine
- Refrains from taking any political stance
- Includes online support and a licensing agreement to use the content for educational purposes

The course is designed for DEI education and compliance in the cannabis sector.

We would love to help you adopt The Jewish Relation to Cannabis into your course.

TAGLINE

Our tagline, “Chosen To Spread the Word About the Herb,” refers to both the Biblical roots of cannabis use and the pivotal role that Jews have played in the cannabis movement.

EDITOR-IN-CHIEF

Dr. Lissa Skitolsky has a Ph.D. in Philosophy and Jewish Studies and a post-secondary degree in Cannabis Cultivation. She designed the course to provide context for the Jewish role in cannabis history in accord with best pedagogical practices learned during her extensive career as a professor teaching diverse groups of students in the US and Canada.
